Dear [REDACTED]

Thanks very much for your letter of 14 November 1950.

First to dispose of your question reference storage of household goods. [REDACTED] has explored this and advises me that there is no reason why orders cannot be issued now which will enable you to ship your household effects to the States any time after issuance. He also advises that the Agency will store in one of its own warehouses any reasonable amount of household goods for any reasonable time without charge, or you can have a commercial company store them and claim storage costs not to exceed ninety days. I would recommend the first solution.

We will prepare a travel order request without delay and wire you the number and date. You should be cautious to retain receipted bills for any payments for storage etc. you make in [REDACTED] in order to support your reimbursement claim voucher.

You will be interested to know of certain changes that have become necessary here since I wrote you last. [REDACTED] has had an offer from the [REDACTED] at a higher rating and I have agreed to re-lease him on 2 January 1951. To fill in the gap I am ordering [REDACTED] from [REDACTED] here to run the [REDACTED] Branch until you return from [REDACTED]. That leaves [REDACTED] in charge of [REDACTED] with [REDACTED], who incidentally is now [REDACTED] as [REDACTED] at that station. Please do not interpret this as a hint that you should return to Washington without availing yourself of your planned leave on the Continent. I am sure that the present arrangement will work out OK and there is no need for you to curtail your present plans as far as I can see now.
